FALESHOOD IS TRANSPARENT

Scurvy Methods Adopted by Herald

In an Infamous Attempt to Discredit the Journal-Miner—
Truth Will Prevail.

"A lie twice told is proven" seems to be the hypothesis that the Herald goes on to make out a case of neglect or carelessness against the Journal-Miner office in the matter of printing the great register for the city.

It published an infamous, malicious and contemptible lie in reference to the matter on Wednesday and repeated it again on Thursday with some more infamous falsehoods as garnishments to it, of which the following are samples:

"This afternoon the copy for the city register as it was returned to City Clerk Cartter was carefully gone over, and in one place alone seven pages of it were missing."

"The only means of determining whether or not certain names left off the register are due to the fault of city officials or that of the printer rests on this copy."

"Part of it being missing makes it a difficult matter to fix the blame positively, and allows the printer a loophole out of which to crawl from a trying position."

Instead of the copy being returned on Thursday morning it was returned on Tuesday afternoon, of the day of election. A printer in the Journal-Miner office permitted it to be taken out inadvertently as it is a rule of printing offices to retain such copy to their protection just to guard against any misrepresentations.

In this case Mr. Cartter said it was the only copy he had, that instead of preparing a duplicate copy he had given the printers the original.

The Herald also quotes Mr. Cartter as saying:

"I know that some names were left off the register by the printers," said City Clerk Cartter this afternoon. "It is also true that some names of people who thought they had registered never reached the office of the city clerk."

"I cannot tell now just who was left off and who was placed on, because some of the parts of the copy we turned over to the printers are missing."

Just at the present time the Journal-Miner has nothing worse to say about Mr. Cartter than that he, not being infallible is very likely to be mistaken.

The copy has been out of this office now for nearly three days during which time a reporter of the Herald has had access to it and has had every opportunity to doctor it up in order to make a case against the Journal-Miner but even with the inclination he has shown and the ability he may possess to do this the Journal-Miner is willing to wager any amount that every name that was furnished the printer was placed on the register just as it appeared in the copy having possibly a few errors of spelling as in some instances the chirography was so poor that it was difficult to determine the exact and correct name.

The names were numbered with an automatic numbering machine, and if one page, even were omitted the printed numbers must of necessity be missing and will show for themselves on the register as printed. Seven pages of copy left out would make a break in the numbers of from forty to fifty names. Will the Herald or Mr. Cartter go over the register and show where these omissions occur.

The Journal-Miner has demanded an investigation of the malicious charges preferred against it by the Herald and apparently approved by their clerk, if Mr. Cartter is correctly quoted and is willing to let the register and the copy speak for itself.

In the meantime if any has any doubt that the Herald is guilty of lying in this matter they can check the register up in a very few minutes and demonstrate it themselves. As stated already the numbers run consecutively. There are eighty names on each full page of the register. On pages where initial letters occur deduct two lines or names for each initial letter. For instance the first page contains two initial letters, A and B, hence only contains seventy names. By checking up in this simple manner, any omissions of numbers can easily be detected, the total number of names being 1,452.

That the copy was cut up in the office is correct and every printer knows that this is done in every office, but the omission of a single name would have been detected in proof reading.

"Truth crushed to earth will rise again" and all the avoirdupois possessed by both the editor of the Herald and his reporter cannot crush the truth concerning this but what it will rise again.

AN INVITING PLACE

Schumate & Jackson Now Located
With Excellent Accommodations

Ed Schumate and Pete Jackson have formed a copartnership and taken over the business of Mansfield & Nolan. For several days this firm has been giving the old house a new deal from one end to the other. Everything has been rearranged, new goods are en route, the culinary attachments have been removed along with the odor that was waited through the store, in fact and in short the systematic method adopted in renovating and improving the old is a decided change for the better. The old and popular place is in a convenient location and it is the purpose of the energetic men behind its future welfare to make it an inviting place for all patrons. They have started out nicely to this end. As caterers to the wants of the public they will vie with all to the end that the best of service will be given, while in dispensing coffee and other similar drinks, together with the specialty that will be made of the oyster trade, as well as other orders, diligence and care will be taken to please all. The place is now as neat as a pin. The public should visit it to appreciate the system that is in vogue, and if they do so from one end to the other neatness will be seen and courteous treatment will be shown to all on every occasion.

Desirable Opportunity

On the 15th of this month I will begin the preparation of a special edition of the Resources of Yavapai county for free distribution at the Lewis-Clark Centennial exhibition, which will be held at Portland, Oregon, for six months following May 1st next. In importance this will be the greatest world exposition during the year 1905, and will perhaps, so far as our interests are concerned, be the only fair of international import at which we will have so favorable an opportunity of doing good for ourselves for some years to come.

My last two editions speak for themselves, and in the preparation of the third I only ask for that support and consideration from those who have the good of the county and territory at heart. If people ever become acquainted with our incomparable resources, one of the methods is truthful and legitimate advertising. "Keeping everlastingly at it will surely bring success."

NEWLY OPENED.

The Commercial cafe has been newly opened by Mrs. Louise Lowe who will conduct a first class eating place and will serve meals in family style that will surely please. The public patronage is solicited and every effort will be made to give satisfaction to all.

THE OCCASION A PRETTY ONE

Eagles Install Officers and Entertain Friends

One of the Pleasantest Ever to Take Place in this City is to the Credit of the Local Aerie Last Night.

Very many public entertainments have been given in recent years in this city to please the fancy and to be long remembered. But that of Thursday night on the occasion of the public installation of officers of the F. O. E. was by far the most graceful and the most appreciative of any fraternal event or otherwise that has ever taken place within Prescott. It was due to the generous impulses that characterize this excellent order, and the responsive chord of fellowship in feeling was attested by such a throng that many were unable to see or be seen. The spacious hall of the order was packed with an eager throng. From the beginning of the solemn duties that signaled the initiating of each man's duty to the cause that only those of the order know or feel, interest was shown and duly regarded to that degree of earnestness that a pin dropping on the floor could have been traced by its sound. The services were beautiful and as the impressive rites were administered to each newly chosen officer, the prettiness of the ceremony created many handsome expressions from all who were not linked in fellowship to this order.

Varying from the lodge room work, an interesting program was also given. This feature of the entertainment comprised the rendering of many selections from the well known Eagles band, under the directorship of Prof. Eller. Miss Carpenter, the sweet vocalist, and a universal favorite, sang very sweetly and was cheered generously. A male quartette also gave several songs. Miss Loring, a visitor to the city from Boston, made a very favorable impression in vocal selections. Mr. Sargood sang twice because he was called back. A farce by Mosher and Baker was cleverly acted. Ernest Emanuel had his violin in an harmonious condition and demonstrated his ability as a master.

After the conclusion of the musical and literary events, the officers for the grand lodge were installed. They are:

J. E. McCoy, past grand worthy president.
J. P. Dillon, past grand worthy president.

Dr. J. Harvey Blain, past vice grand president.

Morris Asher, grand chaplain;
C. P. Hicks, grand secretary.
Bert C. Davis, grand treasurer.

Hon. Lucius R. Barrow, grand conductor.

F. E. Mansfield, grand inside guard.
Al. Webber, grand outside guard.
D. M. Clark, and Adolf Moser, grand trustees.

Dr. Smith and W. E. Mansfield, grand physicians.

Sergeant Lee and Borg of the U. S. army stationed at Whipple, grand guards of honor.

The officers installed by Prescott Aerie 233 F. O. E. are:

W. J. Bond, worthy president.
Thomas Patterson, worthy vice president.

F. H. Williams, worthy chaplain.
Chas. H. McLane, worthy secretary.
O. W. Manderfeld, worthy treasurer.

L. R. Barrow, worthy conductor.
Harry Haskins, inside guard.
Max Goron, outside guard.

R. K. Talbot, W. S. Marks and A. J. Herndon, trustees.

Dr. W. E. Linn and Dr. S. V. Fitzsimmons, Aerie physicians.

The evening was concluded with dancing and the hall was so jammed by the devotees of the terpsichorean art, it was difficult to the many to enjoy this feature of the entertainment for that reason.

The Eagles are to be heartily complimented. They enjoyed the occasion because others enjoyed their hospitality. They are proverbially linked to the good cheer side of life and Thursday they tied themselves to the people with a chord that will everlastingly bind.
